FIRE.-The alarm of fire, about 8 o'clock last evening, proceeded from the produce store of George C. Hunter, on Main street, between Third and Fourth streets. The fire originated under the stairs among a lot of sacks, and if it had not been discovered at the time it was the entire building would have been destroyed. The safe was open and the books scattered around, and it is presumed that the store was first robbed and then set on fire. The windows in the rear of the building were open, and the incendiaries no doubt effected their entrance by this means. The loss by fire and water will not exceed $6,000, which is no doubt fully covered by insurance,

Amusements.

Wood's THEATER.-There was a large and highly appreciative audience assembled at this cosy little emple of the muses, on last evening, to witness Miss Mary Mitchell's beautiful new drama of the "Poor Girl." This piece is decidedly "something new under the sun," this being its first production on any stage, and from what we saw of it we are very favorably impressed with the character of the "Poor Girl." Miss Mary Mitchell, although no quite so popular as her gifted sister, Maggie s quite as talented and happy in the conception o haracter; and, in her particular role, she has few if any, equals on the American stage. The "Poor Girl" will make her appearance again this evening when an overflowing house will greet her second appearance on the mimic stage.

LOUISVILLE THEATER.-This fashionable place o musement was again crowded last evening to witness the side-splitting delineation of character in Helping Hands and Unwarrantable Intrusions, as witnessed by the great comedy combination at tractive in the fertile fields of comedy. To-night a liant victory. is offered for the benefit of Mr. D. A. ville, in which Miss Leo Hudson and Messrs. mattrasses, cushions, or anything else in the Drew, Scallan and Ashley will appear, forming a ombination of talent seldom witnessed on our boards. Let there be a full house.

VARIETIES,-Go to the Varieties to-night and you will see fun. They are a funny set of performers, and make everybody enjoy themselves who go to see them.

as they are received. General Wilson's cavalry force, which was moving toward the Gulf. The enemy was badly beaten and many prisoners taken. Gen. Hatch is in command at Eastport. General Butord, with a small force, is near Corint. The garrison at Eastport is more than sufficient to take care of them.

FIRST DISPATCH. PERATIONS TO THE 31ST ULT -SPANISH FORT FULLY INVESTED.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3. The latest received here from Mebile is up to 11 o'clock of the 31st ultimo. At 8 o'clock, on that morning, our forces succeeded in planting eight thirty pounder Parrots above Spanish Fort, and in an angle of the bay, so that they sweep the bay in front of the fort. This accomplishes weat the fleet had attempted, and steps the rebel fleet from plying between Mebile and the fort. It is thus completely surrounded, and must capitulate in time. surrounded, and must capitulate in time. These eight pieces have driven back the rebel gunboats, and it is thought one of them is surk. In three hours iney threw five hundred shots, while the field artillery is capable of pouring four thousand shots a day into Spanish Fort.

Our loss, up to the 31st ult., had been four hundred and twenty. Most of these were lost in the attempt to plant eight guas, as they were once repulsed, but finally succeeded. We have under-estimated the strength of Spanish Fort. It is said to be fully as strong as Fort Fisher.
The Milwaukee was blown up on the 27.h ult., but no lives were lost on her. The Ossge was blown up on the 28th. They are to be raised soon.

SECOND DISPATCH. GEN. STEELE'S COLUMN ARRIVED-A TIN CLAD

SUNK BY A TORPEDO. NEW ORLEANS, April 4. On the 21 Gen. Steele's column, from Pensacola, effected a junction with the right of our line before Spanish Fort. This will make our force three times a great as that of the rebels. This junction was among the last of the preparations for an assault on the fort, and it is believed here, by those having good facilities for knowing, that the main awack is in progress to-day, if not already completed. Gen. Totten has been moving up his siege trair, and has upward of fifty pieces of heavy artillery bearing on Spanish Fort, ready to be unmasked when the attack is made. A few nights ago twenty-five men, from a Vermont regiment, in a charge, got upon the enemy's breastworks, and were captured. On our left, a company of rehelicity.

our left a company of rebels were captured in like manner. Our lines have been brought so close to those of the rebels that they can scarcely advance further. We have had another gunboat blown up. On the 1st, while the tin-clad Rodolph wa combarding Spanish Fort, she was struck by torpeco, and sunk. The official dispatch loes not report any lives lost. Over 100 wounded men arrived from the front here, this morning, on the stemers Kate Dale and Ibervine; 563 have been received up to this time. They are principally from Hilinois regiments. Our wounded report that the rebels fight more desperately than they have at any time since the siege of Vicksburg. They say if they lose Mobile they may as well abandon the struggle.

General S'eele's captures include 200 men, 22 cfficers, 400 horses and a large quantity of small arms.

THOUGHT TO HAVE OCCURRED. NEW ORLEANS, April 5, via CAIRO, April 10. The True Delta has news from Mobile t the eve of the 31 of April. A torpedo expled-ed under the starboard bow of the Rodolph. The vessel was badly shattered. One man was thrown high up in the air. A large piece of boat fell upon the hurricane deck. One of her large rifle guns, on the starboard bow, was tossed up, and in falling, crushed through her decks and bottom. The navy has dragged up all stationary torpedoes in this portion of the bay, and the ones now doing damage are set afloat at the city, and the tide carries them down among cur vessels.

REBEL DESERTERS -L. E. Conley and F. M. Bane, Company G, Twelfth Tennessee cavalry, Moses Lockhart, during a personal difficulty, and J. S. Lovelace, Tenth Alabama cavalry, arrived at Cairo Thursday last, on the steamer W. W. Graham, having boarded the boat at Hale's Point, and asked to be brought to Cairo. They desire to take the oath of allegiance. They belong to Forrest's command, and deserted March 9.b, while on a scout near Ellistown, Miss. They afterwards reached Purdy, near Jackson, in ment of McNairy county, and finally struck the river at Hale's Point. They were taken charge of by Mr. J. Marshal at Cairo. About half-past 2 o'clock, on Saturday morning, a fire broke out in Thomas D. Davis & Co.'s Eagle flour mills, at the corner of Seventh and Madison streets, in Covington, and before the flames could be subdued, the building was almost entirely destroyed. About fifty barrels of flour and a considerable quantity of wheat was consumed. The loss of Messrs. Davis & Co. will amount to about four thousand dollars. No insurance. The building belonged to Richard Demossville, and was valued at about three thousand dollars. It was not insured. The cause of the fire is not known. The flames were first discovered in the third story. RELEASED PRISONERS .- About sixteen released prisoners from Rock Island arrived at Cairo Thursday last. They were captured at Lookout Mountain, are Tennessecans, have been confined some sixteen months and are en route for Nashville. They were well supplied with rings they had made in prison, some of them being nestly ornamented, and which they were disposing of to enable them to reach their homes.

On Thursday last a serious accident occurred on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, at a place between Lafayette and Collierville, known as Turin bridge, about eight miles from Memphis. The freshet had carried away a span of the bridge, and the train coming along at a pretty rapid rate, the locomotive, tender and platform cars were precipia tated into the stream. An Irishman was killed and a colored man drowned. Other colhas since been drawn out, and lies on dry which it cleanses the blood and cures these disorders.

During the late years the public have been misled by arge bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of presparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been rands upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter disappointment has followed the use of the various extrac's of Sarsaparilla which Shaving, Hair Dressing & Bathing Saloon, flood the market, until the name itself has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound "Sarsaparilla," and intend to supply ich a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of bloquy which rests upon it. We think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. We can only assure the sick, that we offer them the best ason to believe it is by far the most effectual purifier of the blood yet discovered by anybody.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so universally known t irpass every other remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consump ive patients in advanced stages of the disease, that it useless here to recount the evidence of its virtues,

WASHINGTON, April 11. The proclamation in reference to closing Southern ports is in accordance with a law passed early in 1861. It was then understood, however, that while foreign powers would re-spect the effective blockade of these ports, a claim to exercise legal authority over them as over other ports of the United States would e respected.

It is believed that the time has come, however, when the United States government can claim to exercise that legal authority over all its property and ports, whether blockaded or not, which belongs to every independent sov-ereign power. A sufficient number of Southereign power. A sufficient number of Southerp ports are left open for legitimate trade and those now proclaimed closed will, it is presumed, be re-opened after a short time. Meanwhile, blockade running is likely to be effectively ended. "We are inclined to believe that Mr. Greeley himself is quite satisfied by this time with the turn which the Niagara peace negotiations took. That whole affilr proves to have been, in the main, a trick. There was no expectation and no purpose of peace on the part of the rebels. Their game was to make capital for the approaching Presidential election. They believed they could aid materially in electing a Democratic President, and that then they could negotiate for peace with better prospects of having something to show as the fruits of their rebellion. The whole thing proved a failure; bu it is not easy to say how. The United States, whatever, claim or pre-tense may have existed heretofore, are now, at least entitled to claims and concede in entire and friendly quality of rights and hospitali-ties with all maritime nations. As die the embers on the hearth,
And o'er the floor the shadows fall,
Andecreeps the chirping cricket forth,
And ticks the death watch in the wall—
I see a form on yonder chair
That grows beneath the waning light—
There are the wan, sad features—there,
The pallid brow and locks of white!
My Father! when they laid thee down,
And heaped the clay upon thy breast,
And left thee sleeping all alone
Uponthy narrow couch of rest,
I know not why I could not weep—
The soothing drops refused to roll;
And oh! that grief is wild and deep
Which settles tearless on the soul!
But when I saw thy vacant chair—
Thine idle hat upon the wall—
Thy book—the penciled passage where
Thine eyes had rested, last of all;
The tree beneath whose friendly shade
Thy trembling feet had wandered forth—
The very prints those feet had made
When last they feeb y trod the earth—
And thought, while countless ages fied,
Thy vacant seat would vacant stand—
Unworn thy hat, thy book unread,
Effaced thy footsteps from the sand—
And widowed, in this cheerless world,
The heart that gave its love to thee—
Torn, like a vine, whose tendeils curled
More closely round the falling tree!
Oh, Father! then, for her and thee!
Gushed madly forth the scorching tears;
And oft, and long, and bitterly,
Those tears have gushed in later years;

And oft, and long, and bitterly,
Those tears have gushed in later years;
For, as the world grows cold around,
And things take on their real hue,
'Tis sad to learn that love is found
Alone above the stars with you. THE CLYNTON PINE.

BY MIRIAM ALLEN,

The old schoolmaster took a spelling book from his desk, pushed up his specta-cles, and in a loud voice called, "Mark Thurston, Number one!" A boy, with very flashing black eyes.

walked proudly down the aisle, and took his place at the head of the class. Rosa McGilverie, Number two," called the loud voice again. There was a little confusion on the girls' in scalding tears. She wept bitterly every side, and then a snarl of bright curls apday, and grew thin and pale. One day not peared from under a desk, a pair of queer hazel eyes looked up saucily, and a pert upon going into her daughter's room, dis-covered a letter directed to herself. She voice said, "Did you call me?"

"Take your place!" thundered the schoolopened it, and there read the cause of her master. The little girl then came leisurely daughter's sorrow. The letter stated what from her seat, walked to the other part of had transpired; that she was enciente; that daughter's sorrow. The letter stated what

He commenced in an uncertain voice: b-e, be, l-e-i-v-e, lieve, beleive.

'Next!" said the master. Rosa spelled it right, with no shade of triumph in her manner, and modestly took er place above Mark. Then she whispered, in the most provoking way, "Don't you be-lieve I can get above you now."

After school, Rosa threw on her little red shawl any way, and ran off alone. Mark stand a fair chance with other folks, waz was a favorite; that handsome, generous boy! She almost wished he hadn't missed. It was good enough for him though! He thought girls didn't know anything. Rosa's cheeks flushed at the thought, and she looked very

Just then, a voice spoke, right by her side, "You can't be number one, to-morrow, anyway, Miss. The master says I ought to have had another trial."

"Just as the A B C class does; poor little fellow! So he should have another trial!" drawled Rosa.

"You are a hateful girl," cried Mark, with angry cycs; "you are horrid homely and dreadful mean, and nobody likes you." Rosa could not bear this. She sprang to her feet and tried to strike the boy's handsome face. He was too tall by far for her to reach. She seized her slate then, flung it with all her strength against him, and ran away. Mark turned white with rage, but he was too chivalrous to return the blow. He rushed home in a passion, burst open the kitchen door, and cried, "O, mother, wish Rosa McGilverie was a boy, so I could give her a good thrashing."

The angry children little thought how many years would pass before they would neet under the old pine again. That night Rosa was sent to live in another town near Better days dawned for the orphhan rirl. Her new found aunt, with whom she was to live, was a gentle Christian woman. She of all others, was the one to tame the ungovernable child, and develop her love-

When Rosa next saw Clyton, she was a young lady of eighteen. Her grandmother, who lived in the old village, was ill and sent for her. With careful nursing the old lady recovered, and Rosa determined to return to her good aunt's. How differently she felt about leaving Clynton this time. did not know that the "Clanmarina" had arrived in New York. Mark himself was standing without, looking with wondering eyes at the young lady beside his mother. "Can she be Ross McGilverie?" he thought. "That snarl of hair changed to levely curls, those wicked eyes, so sweet and dark, that ugly child transformed to a beauty?"

I can't begin to tell you of all that was said and done when Mark raised the vines and exclaimed, in his old merry voice, "Good evening, ladies." Neither do I know just how Ross asked forgiveness of the young Captain, as they walked that night down the hill, past the old pine, to her grandmother's cottage.
